

Visual-aural effects demonstrated at Rice

Rice Media Center closes out its semester season of avant garde films and lectures this weekend.

On Friday, Woody and Steina Vasulka present a video concert of visual-aural effects similar to those in the film "2001." They will be attempting to demonstrate the difference between this new art form and traditional film techniques. It's at 8 p.m.

Three films and a video tape examine the background of the political scene in Chile and Uruguay Saturday at 8 p.m. "Allende," an interview of the late Chilean president by Marxist filmmaker Saul Landau, will be offered along with a Rossellini documentary featuring another interview with Allende as well as the Swedish "Tupamaros," a look at the Uruguayan revolutionary group.

On Sunday, Costa-Gavras "State of Siege" screens at 7:30 p.m. It's a fictionalization about the actual kidnapping and killing of a CIA agent by the Tupamaros.

Benefit Cenikor

Kingdom, USA. Austin, founder and president of the foundation, has played country and western music for many years.

Tickets for the benefit may be obtained at the Cenikor facility, 1101 Elder St., or at the door.
