Dear Woody:

I'm so glad I was able to get through to you tonight--it was good to hear your voice after such a long time! I'm really delighted you're able to send a selection of images for me to choose from. POSTMODERN CURRENTS: Art and Artists in the Age of Electronic Media will be published by UPA Research Press in their Avant-Garde Series by the end of this year. The attached sheet provides a brief description of the book. It will contain 75 pages of black and white illustrations (total number of pages is 250). As you know, reproduction quality 6"x10" black and white (glossy) photograph of the work is best. Images with good contrast reproduce best. Please include titles, medium, and any descriptive material which would help in preparing the caption. If you have photocopies of reviews or interpretive materials about your work, I would appreciate having those, too. Time is of the essence! Final deadlines are end of June, with publication and release by December of this year. You can count on me to return all your materials as soon as I can, in good order. The image(s) chosen for reproduction will, of course be returned later, probably in December.

We can fill out the enclosed release form once we've decided on the final images. The duplicate copy of this request is for your files. I'll be in touch soon. Many thanks

Sincerely,
